New Year Tips!

If your New Years Resolution is to improve your game, here are some key points to keep in mind:

Practicing with a Purpose: Many golfers feel the only way to improve their game is by hitting the range and playing more rounds. But what is the focus during practice? Here are some great fundamentals to produce better results out of your range sessions:

1. Never go the same target twice. Do you hit 10 balls with the same club to a flag on the golf course?
2. Play the course game from the range. In a typical game of golf you only get one shot with a particular club. It's a great habit to play mock holes on the range (Example: Hit Driver, then iron, then chip to a target)
3. Know the swing mechanics you are trying to improve. Being more specific with what to work on will always produce better results. If you aren't sure how to improve your swing, signing up for a series of golf lessons will be worth both your time and money!
